Internet Company to buy Glens Falls, NY Radio Stations

RegionalHelpWanted.com, Inc. today announced the acquisition, pending FCC approval, of radio stations in Glens Falls, NY. An LMA (Local Marketing Agreement) starts 9/1. The stations, WWSC AM, WCKM FM and WCQL FM will be owned by Regional Radio Group, LLC, a sister company to RegionalHelpWanted.com. The seller of the radio stations is Entertronics, Inc.

Clay Ashworth, President of Regional Radio, says "Entertronics has done a very professional job building these three radio stations and making them an integral part of the North Country community. We hope to build on what Dave and Robin Covey and their staff have done. All of us at Regional Radio are excited about the growth prospects of this area."

Eric Straus, President of RegionalHelpWanted.com added "We have a huge stable of experienced broadcasters on the payroll here at RHW... and we are all great believers in the extraordinary power of local radio. Since selling Straus Media stations in 2000, station prices have come down; we think it's an excellent time to re-enter station ownership; and we look forward to exciting growth in the years ahead."

Clay Ashworth was most recently Market Manager for Adirondack Broadcasting, Glens Falls, NY. Eric Straus is CEO of RegionalHelpWanted.com and former owner of Straus Media Group. Stacy Rogers is former Vice President of Albany Broadcasting, Albany, NY.
